Plant Health Care plc
Distribution Agreement

Plant Health Care (“PHC” or the “Group”) is pleased to announce that Ewing Irrigation, Golf & Industrial (“Ewing”), a major US distributor of turf and landscapes supplies, has become a distributor for Plant Health Care’s products. Ewing is one of the largest suppliers to the golf course industry with over 150 branches located across the United States. In addition to golf courses, Ewing also supplies products to the landscape and ornamental markets. PHC will initially provide training and products to 16 locations, with the intention of a nationwide rollout in early 2006.

PHC’s line of golf products have been proven with great success in the regional markets in which they compete. The mycorrhizal based Turf Saver™ line has shown to be particularly effective at grow-in and aeration times to increase root mass and reduce the amount of time it takes for the turf to become established.

John Brady, CEO of Plant Health Care, said, “We are delighted that Ewing shares our vision for offering highly effective natural solutions to the landscape, horticulture and turf management industries. With 150 locations, professionals around the country can turn to Ewing to find the best mycorrhizal and microbial products to serve their needs. The addition of Ewing to the PHC family of distributors allows us immediate access to a nationwide distributor for the golf industry as well as strong support to our professional landscape business.”

Mike Tentis, Agronomic Products Manager, of Ewing Irrigation commented, “Ewing has a long history of bringing exciting new products to the turf and landscape industries. Plant Health Care produces unique, value-added products and they will be a great addition to our family of vendor partners.”
